Clinton City Council sets rules for signage

Daniel Richardson

The Clinton City Council passed an ordinance that places basic rules on signage that residents place throughout the city. Ordinance 2014-11-02, passed unanimously at Monday night's meeting of the council, places regulations on garage and yard sale signs, political signs, event signs and general signs displayed within the city limits of Clinton.

Such rules include that "no sign shall be placed on any post or pole, including utility pole or traffic sign pole, no sign shall be placed on a public right of way, street, or sidewalk; no sign shall be placed on City Property unless there is express permission given by the mayor or the event is a City sponsored event; and no sign shall be placed in a location or position that obstructs any view for traffic or pedestrians.'

In regards to garage and yard sale signs, the ordinance states that the signs are only allowed on private property, must display the time, date, and location of the event, must be no larger than ordinary poster paper, and may be displayed up to one week prior to the event and must be removed within 48 hours of the event's expiration. Signs not meeting the above mentioned criteria are subject to removal, the ordinance

During the meeting, the council discussed the acceptance of a property donation. Brian and Melissa Claxton submitted a letter to Mayor Tommy Kimbro requesting to donate the property located at 307 Mayfield Rd. in Clinton to the City of Clinton.

Council members decided that they will need more information regarding the property before deciding to accept or deny the donation. The council plans to demolish the dilapidated structure on the property if it accepts ownership, and would like to get an accurate estimate of the demolition cost. The council will also consider how much money will be owed to Hickman County in past due property tax for the property, which the council believes will have to be paid in order to transfer the deed.

In other business, the council voted to authorize the mayor to execute a deed to Hickman County Cooperative Ministries Inc. for the sale of a parcel of land. This resolution is in regards to the lot adjacent to the Mission House in Clinton, which the council voted earlier to sell to the Mission House for $1.

The next meeting of the Clinton City Council will be held on Monday, January 5, 2015 at 6 p.m. at Clinton City

Mayor-elect Phyllis Campbell will take office on January 1. Council member-elect Laura Poole will also take office on January 1.

Deena Morrison, center, and her daughter Maddy Morrison, left, offer a free sample of a dill pickle to DeAnn McCreery during the Hickman County Arts, Craft, and Book Fair on Saturday, Nov. 22. Morrison has been canning for four years, is a Hickman County resident and teaches at Fulton County Elementary/Middle School.

Canning is a summer tradition for Morrison find Deena Morrison in the classroom specialty was jelly." sharing her love for math with her students at Fulton County Elementary/ Middle School. In the summer, at night and on weekends, Morrison, the mother of two daughters, Caroline (14) and Maddy (10), can be found in her newly built basement kitchen canning a variety of items. In the beginning Morrison canned for her family, now she has started a small business, selling whatever her family is willing to give up.

"I began making salsa and strawberry
"My family loved it jelly," she said. "My family loved it so I kept expanding and trying new things." As her garden has grown, so has the variety of canned items she canned, which now includes pickles, tomato juice and tomatoes, spaghetti sauce, peach jelly, grape jelly and pepper relish, just to name a few.

Morrison learned the art of canning from her two grandmothers and mother. Many people, like Deena Morrison's 89-year-old grandmother, Margaret Dunavant, canned out of necessity. "She had five children, so canning was During the school year you will a must," Morrison explained. "Her Morrison.

> like Deena's grandmother, Lola Mae Stephens (who passed away in 2009), canned peaches to make fried pies. "She would cook her peaches with sugar and vinegar and then make fried pies," Morrison said. "They were my favorite."

> Morrison's mother, Waynell Stephens, had a favorite item to can and it was tomatoes. "My grandmother taught Mom how to can, too," noted Morrison. "Mom canned pickles, and lots of tomato juice and tomatoes."

> Waynell, who has scaled back her canning to travel, would plant 100 tomato plants every spring and would then can over 100 quarts of tomatoes and juice. "She would use them in soups and chili," explained Morrison. "She says she canned because it tastes so much better."

> Both Morrison's grandmothers and her mom rarely bought jars back when they were canning. "Back when they canned most foods came in glass jars that were reusable so that is why they rarely bought any jars," explained

Morrison is also keeping the legacy of canning in the family alive working side by side with her daughter Maddy, making tomato juice.

A goal of Morrison's has been to enter something into each category at the Hickman County Fair. "That is when I decided to add items like chow-chow relish, pepper relish and corn relish," she said. She earned many ribbons at last year's fair.

Over the last four years, while raising her family, Morrison has been perfecting her craft and turning her hobby into a small business. Winning several ribbons in the Hickman County Fair and hearing people say "Oh you could sell this," prompted Morrison to not only enlarge the items she cans, but now she barters for her canning and she is selling some of it, too.

"Friends like Teresa Wright, who is one of my guinea pigs when I am trying new things encouraged me to sell, so I inquired about the arts and crafts festival," she said. "I hoped to sell some things but thought we could just eat what didn't sell if I didn't. I was surprised at the volume I sold."

Luckily, before heading to the annual festival, Morrison's husband, Tim, made her keep several things at home that he would not part with. She even had a request from her brother-in-law to make barbecue sauce, another item she had available at the festival.

Morrison has taken the art of canning, passed down through generations, from her mother and grandmothers and turned it into a small business that lets her set her own hours while doing something she really enjoys.

Adding the kitchen in the basement made it easier for her to can and also provided additional storage space for the food for her family and the items she has started selling at local arts and craft fairs. "I started canning just because I loved salsa and planted a garden to make the salsa," she said. "I now plan on setting up more often at arts and craft festivals. I love to can and if I can make money doing it that is a plus!"

Morrison is organizing a Christmas Bazaar at the Pontotoc Building in Fulton on Friday, Dec. 5 from 5 to 8 p.m.

Terms and Conditions - Budget Payment Plan

Company's Budget Payment Plan is available to any residential customer or general service customer. Under this plan, a customer may elect to pay, each billing period, a budgeted amount in lieu of billings for actual usage. A customer may enroll in the plan at any time.

Proposed:

Company's Budget Payment Plan is available to any residential customer served under Residential Service Rate RS or any general service customer served under General Service Rate GS. If a residential customer, who is currently served under Residential Service Rate RS and is currently enrolled in the Budget Payment Plan, elects to take service under Residential Time-of-Day Energy Service Rate RTOD-Energy or Residential Time-of-Day Demand Service Rate RTOD-Demand, such customer would be removed from the Budget Payment Plan and restored to regular billing. Complete copies of the proposed tariffs containing text changes and proposed rates may be obtained by contacting Edwin R. Staton, Kentucky Utilities Company at 220 West Main Street, Louisville, Kentucky, 502-627-4314, or visiting Kentucky Utilities Company's website at www.lge-ku.com.

I have been reading Psalm 145 this morning, a psalm of praise. Let me share one or two verses

It is Thanksgiving Day as I of the goodness of God. "The write. Dorothy and I are having a Lord is good to all" (v19). God blesses even those who reject him. He withholds judgment and provides them with sunshine and rain, food and shelter and more. "Thou openest thy hand, and satisfies the desire of every living thing" (v16). God not only provides for man, he does not forget his other creatures. "Great is the Lord, and greatly to be praised; his greatness is unsearchable" (v3).

In v18 and 19, we see how deep and wide, how great is the love of God to every soul. "The Lord is nigh unto all them that call upon him, to all who call upon him in truth. He will fulfill the desire of them that fear him; he also will hear their cry, and will save them."

Beelerton Buzz

By Tammy Byrd

As we welcome in the month of December we would like to wish Mike Lynch a happy birthday on the 4th. I'm sure there are others but that was all I had in my birthday book for this

I would like to mention a lot of family get-togethers over the Thanksgiving holiday. Helen Bostick spent 2 days with her daughter, Susan Hayes and family in Jackson, Tn. Sherman and Shelia Walker visited with her Uncle Dwain and family in Danville, KY and while there they attended a UK ballgame. Nancy Conn's family members included her sister and husband, Linda and Pete Haines from Va. David and Pat Collins celebrated Thanksgiving with 30 family members in attendance. Dale Batts traveled with her daughter and husband, Carol and Gary Stuart to their home in IND and then on to Decorah, IA to spend time with her grandson and family, Brian and Gabby and great-granddaughter Isabell Stuart. Marvin and Jackie Lynch spent Thanksgiving with his brother and wife, Larry and Carol Lynch and family in VA. Joe and Jane Pillow spent time with their daughter, Katrina and family in Louisville, Ky. Ben True, their grandson, was home on leave from the military and it was his birthday on the 29th. I know their time together was extra special. Wayne and Linda Lawrence spent a week in Pigeon Forge celebrating their 49th wedding anniversary. They had a wonderful relaxing time. My family along with my brother,

Texas, at church. She was home visiting with family members including her sister, Kathy Fuller and her dad, J C Jackson. On Sunday, Dec 7 from 2 to 4 there will be an open house at the Mt. Zion manse to welcome Bro. Dennis and Debbie Gardner. Be sure and stop by to welcome them to our community. I can't believe it is the first of December! I have already heard people saying how much they dread Christmas. Reasons being from how busy they will be and how much money they will spend. I wondered did the wise men who journeyed hundreds of miles across the desert feel that way? After all it took months to make that trip along with the expensive gifts they had for baby Jesus. The Bible says that as they neared their journeys end that they had exceedingly great joy. What made the difference? Their focus was totally on Jesus. So don't let this Christmas season overwhelm you. Don't feel you have to do everything or go into debt just to impress someone. Take time every day to read about His coming and the wonderful story of His birth. Make this a Christmas of exceedingly great joy!

Our prayer concerns include Vaughn(shoulder surgery), James N Vaughn(flu bug), David Collins, Roger Douglas, Buddy Rogers, Martha Rushing, J C Jackson, Becky Ring (recovering from back surgery), nursing home residents, our nation and leaders, and our military.

Sympathy to the Christine Hancock family and to the Josh Lyman family.

Smart Tax Moves To Consider Before New Year's Eve

The flurry of activity during the last weeks of December can make it difficult to pay attention to finances. If you want to save on your tax bill come April, now's the time to make some critical moves.

If you have a tax advisor or financial planner, it's wise to run these ideas by them first. Here are some suggestions to investigate by year-end with follow-up in the new year:

1. Accelerate your deductions and defer your income. It makes the list every year because it works. To keep your 2014 tax bill low, try to defer bonuses, consulting income or self-employment income until 2015 while taking as many deductions as you legally can in 2014. Deductions may include paying your January federal and state income taxes before Dec. 31, real estate taxes and interest payments.

2. Bunch non-urgent medical expenses this year or move them to 2015. If you have nonemergency medical procedures coming up, it's a good idea to pack them into the same year so people under age 65 can exceed the 10 percent adjusted gross income (AGI) minimum for medical expenses. For those over age 65, the AGI minimum is 7.5 per-

3. Make last-minute withholding adjustments. If you've started making more money later in the year, make sure your withholding or estimated tax payments are adjusted before Dec.

31 so you don't face underpayment penalties later.

4. Evaluate your traditional and Roth IRA holdings. Many people who expect their tax rate to go up in retirement convert traditional IRAs to Roth accounts in advance. Those who don't do so keep their traditional accounts as-is. No matter how close you're getting to retirement, it's a good idea to take inventory of your IRA investments to make sure they're accessible and to contact your tax advisor if you have questions about strategy.

5. Contribute as much to retirement accounts as possible. Putting money away for retirement is always a good idea – for your tax bill and for your future. For tax year 2014, individual 401(k) (http://www.practicalmoneyskills.com/401k) contribution limits are $17,500 and $5,500 for an IRA (not including catch-up contributions for taxpayers 50 or over). In 2015, those contribution limits will go up to $18,000 and $6,000 respectively.

6. Consider HSAs and FSAs. High-deductible insurance plans may offer a health savings account (HSA) option that allows you to deposit pretax dollars to pay for medical expenses high-deductible plans don't cover. Flexible Spending Accounts (http://www.practicalmoneyskills.com/fsa) also allow pre-tax dollars to pay for dental care, vision checkups and glasses and over-the-counter drugs.

7. Gather state and local sales tax receipts. If you itemize your deductions, consider whether to deduct state and local sales taxes instead of state and local income taxes.

8 Consider a gift. Individuals can give up to $14,000 a year per beneficiary to as many people as they'd like during 2014 free of gift or estate tax. That amount goes up to $28,000 per beneficiary per year for spouses (both individual and spousal numbers will stay the same in 2015).

9. Make a last-minute charitable deduction. If you itemize, you can deduct for charitable contributions - but do some homework first. GuideStar.org lists every IRS-registered nonprofit organization, so you can do full research on the organization's work and legitimacy as well as its tax status.

10. Take that home office deduction. If you use part of your home for business or if your office is an unattached structure, you may qualify for a home office deduction up to $1,500 a year.

11. Watch the news and keep your tax preparer's number handy. Congress may spend its final days arguing over a variety of expired tax breaks still pending. It's important to keep an eye on tax news between now and New

Bottom line: Use the end of the year to gather records and advice and make smart choices taxwise and otherwise.

OFF TO A GOOD START

Even though it was "black Friday" weekend and lots of folks were out of town, the first two days of bells and kettles set a good pace for the three weekends still to come. Our goal of at least $3,000 to help needy families in Hickman County is always a bit of a stretch, but good neighbors have come forward with ones, and fives, and tens, and even some $20 bills (and some larger checks) to go with those nickels and dimes (yes, and pennies). Every giver can look forward to knowing, throughout the year, that someone's utility bill, or medical expense, or needs of a child will be met by their gift. Over a hundred families annually, many of them not eligible for other forms of assistance, receive some help from this one brief drive. We want to give special thanks to all the volunteer ringers. When you see someone standing by a kettle, give them at least a smile! So many warmly say, "I already gave at the other kettle," and give encouraging words. Keep up the good work, Hickman County!

half. Now that sounds tempting. I can just feel the warm Caribbean breezes and the sunshine

Airlines also offered specials and I couldn't count all the special offers on electronics. More "stuff" that I really do not need but would be fun, at least until I took a look at the next bank and credit card statements. These kinds of promotions must work or billions in advertising dollars wouldn't be spent promoting them.

Wait! We're in the advertising business. I shouldn't be shouting this out loud.

Like most newspaper publishers, we must struggle more each shopping season to retain what little retail advertising is left.

Not long ago each town had a shoe repair shop, a dress shop or two, a men's store, multiple grocery stores, and sparkling jewelry stores full of all sorts of gift ideas.

Many towns still have one or more of these, but not all. So much can be ordered online, with free shipping and somehow avoidance Google it" has become a popular term. Even that term is old-fashioned. Some folks can get special sale "alerts" on their smart phones and other devices. A lot of money will be spent this holiday season...more than what should when it is all said and done. But then, "it is more blessed to give than receive," so shopping must go on, right? After all, it is the American way.

As most everyone should know, when you are somewhere you're not wanted, it's time to leave. Wendy was doing the job she was hired to do, but some of the Board Members made her very uncomfortable with certain has been known for some time that the actions and comments, she was driven out.

Her grandfather attended the center while the Adult Day Care was in place, and continued after it closed. Her parents often went at lunchtime for a meal and fellowship, but as it stands now we'll never return. Truth be known, some of the Board Members didn't handle the matter in a very professional manner. It center's budget was in trouble. Wendy did her best to get donations and have fund raising events. There was no mention in the paper of donations that were made after some of the pieces she placed in the Senior Chatter. To cut the budget they chose to run her off. Now they aren't going to hire a new director. Eyes need to be opened.

No pity for oil companies

ver the past couple of months, gas prices have been dropping around the country and around the world, and gas is cheaper than it has been in years.

While media organizations are experts at reporting increasing gas prices and the all but arbitrary reasons they rise (civil unrest in the mideast, an earthquake here, tsunami there) they are treading in new water in their quest to report on the decreasing cost for fuel.

THE WAY I SEE IT

Many have turned to constantly reporting on how the increased global supply of oil could possible do more damage than good to our economy, since the big oil companies are seeing lower profits.

Some have suggested that the lower gas prices are the result of a strategic maneuver from big oil companies in the middle-east. The theory is that since America's oil revolution has increased supply and hurt the demand for west Asian oil, the traditional oil tycoons are lowering prices in order to hurt the American drilling efforts, which have a higher drilling cost than traditional a break-even point of $70 per barrel or higher, meaning when oil prices drop below that figure, they are losing money. Most west Asian and Indian oil companies have a break-even point below $40 per barrel, some as low as $20.

This strategy may be working, as some American oil companies are now operating in the red, with oil prices hovering around $66 per barrel. If this trend continues, American producers may cease production, allowing big oil companies to once again ramp up prices.

What seems to be not reported as much is that while oil companies' profits go down, profits of other industries, and the discretionary income of millions of American families, soars.

This is a relief to many, as we have seen oil companies rake in record profits year after year while the rest of the economy dipped deeper and deeper into

The economic benefit of low fuel prices in America is two-fold. The first benefit is from businesses with very fuel-intensive operations. Trucking companies, package delivery services, and airlines have been some of the biggest beneficiaries of the recent drops in fuel prices. With operational costs shrinking, these companies can raise their profit margin, allowing for more internal investment and more jobs. Even as airlines have refused to lower prices on airfare, their increased profit margin allows for more investment in technology development and higher dividends for shareholders.

The other benefit is to individual consumers. Without such a huge portion of their income going to fuel their commutes, American families have more disposable income to spend on what they want. That alone should lead to more holiday spending in the next month, boosting the economy in the short term. Families will also have more money to improve their quality of life, and maybe even save for retirement.

So as gas prices continue to shrink, I have no pity for billionaire oil tycoons who may for the first time in decades see a profit that is less than last year's. If this is, after all, a strategy from foreign oil producers to drive domestic drillers out of business, I hope it doesn't work. American companies should still benefit from lower shipping costs and tariffs, as compared to their overseas competitors. This, I feel, should offset the gap in operational expenses. If not, we need more tariffs on foreign oil. America has the capacity to produce enough oil for Americans, if we will only take advantage of it.
